European Prize

Communication

Committee on Regional Planning and Local Authorities
Mr Jakob ALTMAIER, Germany

1. INTRODUCTION

In its Recommendation 53 (1953), the Assembly recommended to the Committee of Ministers that a European Prize be awarded annually to the municipality which had done most to promote the idea of European unity.

On 21st June 1955, in its Sixth Report, the Committee of Ministers informed the Assembly that it had approved, in the Budget for 1955, an estimate of 25, 000 francs for the institution of a European Prize to be awarded annually by the Special Committee on Municipal and Regional Affairs (Doc. 357, para. 106).

The Committee on Local Authorities has, to date, awarded the European Prize to the following municipalities :

In 1955, to Coventry, Berlin being associated in the award.

1956, to Puteaux and Offenbach.

1957, to Bordeaux and Turin.

1958, to Vienna and The Hague. In 1959 the Prize was awarded to Istanbul .

In making this decision the Committee on Local Authorities considered that the Prize should serve as a political instrument to ensure the expansion of the European idea. It should be not only a reward but also an encouragement .

Istanbul had made considerable progress. Situated between two continents it was not only, as had been said, a " bridge - head forward " but, indeed, a bridge-head for peace and world security ". With its rich past and its active population , this city had made an important and courageous contribution to the safeguard and the development of Western and European civilisation. Istanbul is, moreover, the capital of one of the most vulnerable members of the European community and was in the most difficult position of all. The award of the European Prize to the city and population of Istanbul was not only a mark of encouragement but also a token of gratitude ; a political act of some importance.

The Governor of Istanbul was informed of this decision. On behalf of the Committee, the Chairman sent congratulations to the city and population.

The Committee on Local Authorities has also taken certain decisions regarding the way in which the funds allocated for the European Prize should be used and the procedure to be followed in the matter of presentation of the prize.

2. A. Utilisation of the appropriation of 230,000 French francs constituting the money value of the European Prize

1. According to Article 2 of the Regulations governing the European Prize (adopted by the Special Committee on Municipal and Regional Affairs on 8 th July 1955), the European Prize consists of a shield (which is held b y the winning municipality for six months or a year ) , a replica of it (which the municipality keeps) and a grant to spent on arranging a journey abroad for young residents of the winning municipality.
2. At their 40th Meeting, held from 8 th to 16th June 1956, t h e Ministers' Deputies decided to include in the annual Budget, in addition to the sum of 250,000 francs earmarked for the Prize itself, an appropriation of 100,000 t o cover incidental expenditure such as the expenses of the Mayor of the winning municipality , cost of the diploma and medal, etc.
3. Ever since the Assembly has been expressing an opinion on the vote for its own activities, it has repeatedly urged that the amount of the European Prize should be increased to 1,000,000 francs (plus 250,000 to cover incidental expenditure)<sup>1</sup>. The Committee of Ministers has not granted this request.
4. Experience shows that the sum of 100,000 francs, fixed in 1956 to cover incidental expenditure, has become inadequate , on accoun mainly of the increase in fares which has taken place since that time and the fact that , for several years now, the Prize has been awarded to two municipalities . The Secretary - General has , therefore, proposed that the Budget for 1960 should include an appropriation of 250,000 francs for the Prize and 250,000 for incidental expenditure.
5. In its draft Opinion <sup>2</sup> on the 1960 Budget , the Committee on the Budget noted : " that, despite the repeated requests of the Assembly for an appropriation of 1,250,000 francs, the Committee of Ministers has never granted more than 350,000 (250,000 for the Prize and 100,000 (non-restrictive) for sundry costs). Hence the Committee on the Budget considered that the Secretary - General 's proposal for an appropriation of 500,000 francs (250,000 for t h e Prize and, in the light of experience, 250,0000 for sundry costs) may be recommended for approval ". The proposal of the Committee on the Budget was approved by the Assembly in its Opinion ? 31 of 24 t h April 1959.
6. Thus it was a question of considering how this sum of 250,000 francs should be used. Up to t h e present time, t h e money h a d been handed, in the form of a cheque, to the chief official of the winning municipality. When the Prize was shared between two municipalities , this s um was divided in t o two cheques of 125,000 francs each. As mentioned in paragraph 1 above, the Prize Regulations stipulate that this sum is intended o cover the cost of a journey abroad for young people.
7. In the Report which, on behalf of t h e Committee ; he presented at the European Conference of Local Authorities on 2 9 t h October 1958, M. Altmaier said : " The European Prize has acquired considerable symbolic value. The sum paid to the winning municipalities is negligible and carries no weight, at least so far as the l a r g e towns are concerned ; it is a mere token payment , nothing more. The Committee continue to plead for an increase in t h e money value of the. Prize, if this really cannot be granted , they would be in favour of purely a n d simply abolishing any cash payment to the winners. The Council of Europe will otherwise soon, become a laughing- stock . "
8. In these circumstances , the Committee considered that the Committee of Ministers should be informed of the impossibility of continuing to award such a meagre sum to the prize-winning city, particularly in view of the keen competition which had arisen and of the essentially political character of the award .
9. While maintaining its request that the amount of the Prize be increased to 1,000,000 francs, as urged in previous years, the Committee decided that the 250,000 francs now granted by the Committee of Ministers should be used to finance a visit to a number of the major European capitals by the successful schoolchild or student in a competition on a subject of European interest to be organised b y the Prize-winning city. The winner of the competition will receive his award from the Chairman of the Committee on the occasion of the " Europe Day " which the Regulations invite the chosen city to organise when the Prize is presented.

3. B. Procedure for Presentation

The Committee also decided upon the following procedure.

1. The Mayor of the Prize-winning municipality will be officially invited to attend.
2. Official presentation of the Prize to the winning municipality by the Committee on Local Authorities at the " EuropeDay organised by the former, which might include two kinds of events :
  - a. ceremonial meeting of the Municipal Council attended by members of the Committee on Local Authorities;
  - b. public gathering during which the schoolchild or student successful in the competition organised by the Prize-winning city will receive his award.
