| 335 | Standing Committee 23 March 1973 | Secretary General and Committee on the Budget | Financing of meetings of working groups on scientific cooperation (Doc. 3257) The Assembly, <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Recalling its Recommendations 664 (1972) and 665 (1972), as well as its Orders Nos. 310 (1971) and 323 (1972), aimed at helping to strengthen Europe's scientific and technological potential ; 2. Recognising that the convening of specialist scientific working parties by its Committee on Science and Technology is helping to promote and facilitate scientific cooperation in Europe, on the understanding that the activities of these working parties should not overlap with existing international programmes and that their fields of research should be of scientific value and of a kind which necessitates international multidisciplinary cooperation ; 3. Believing that the institution of the European Joint Committee on Scientific Cooperation is helping to strengthen links between parliamentarians and scientists, which is essential if the joint European research projects in question are to be made part of a general long-term policy ; 4. Welcoming the encouraging results already obtained by the existing working parties, both from a scientific standpoint and in terms of the fostering of a European spirit of scientific research ; 5. Convinced that the long-range forecasting studies carried out in this connection may give rise to new areas of cooperation ; 6. Considering that the organisation of joint research projects for the purposes of European scientific cooperation creates many problems for participating laboratories, particularly as regards the financing of liaison among research workers, 7. Instructs the Committee on the Budget to draft the Assembly's opinion on the Council of Europe's 1974 Budget to include provision for an appropriation under Vote III (Consultative Assembly) which : <ul style="list-style-type: none"> (a) is intended to facilitate : <ul style="list-style-type: none"> (i) contacts among members of the scientific working parties set up at the instance of the Consultative Assembly, for the preparation and implementation of joint research programmes ; (ii) the holding of interdisciplinary scientific meetings for the advancement of the research programmes being pursued by these working parties ; (b) comprises an initial sum of 300 000 FF to be reviewed annually in the light of the programmes ; 8. Instructs the Secretary General to take the necessary steps to receive donations from private foundations to facilitate cooperation among research workers in Europe. |
