

Recommendation 133 (1957)¹

European political unification

Parliamentary Assembly

The Assembly,

Noting that the development of the international situation has once more confirmed the urgent need for Europe to become a united force morally, politically, economically, within the community of the West and in the framework of the United Nations,

Recommends action by the Committee of Ministers as follows :

1. that it should ask the Governments to reply at an early date to the request addressed to them in Resolution (56) 23 of the Committee of Ministers², asking them to consider the principles set out in Recommendation 105³, with a view to working out a common European policy ;
2. that it should work out, on the basis of these replies, a concrete and effective method for co-ordinating their national foreign policies as a preparation for drawing up a common policy ;
3. that it should submit to the Consultative Assembly, in pursuance of Article 1 of the Statute, proposals for establishing the political organs of the European community, taking into account the organisations that have, or are being set up, such as E.C.S.C., Euratom and the Common Market.

1. (see Doc. 616, draft Recommendation presented by the Committee on General Affairs). This Recommendation was adopted by the Assembly at its 38th Sitting, on 11th January 1957

2. See Resolution (56) 23 on the policy of the Council of Europe concerning Eastern Europe, Hungary and the Middle East.

3. See Recommendation 105 on the policy of the Council of Europe concerning East-West relations, relations with "non-committed" countries, and assistance to the under-developed areas.
