

Doc. 13145

18 March 2013

Imposing abortion in Ireland

Reply to Written question¹: Written question No. 622 (Doc. 13090)
Committee of Ministers

1. The Committee of Ministers wishes to inform the Honourable Parliamentarian that it is continuing to examine the state of execution of the A., B. and C. v. Ireland case within the framework of its role of supervision of the execution of the Court's judgments. The Committee has decided to supervise the execution of the above-mentioned case under the enhanced procedure, applying the criteria set out in its decision approved at the 1100th meeting (DH) (December 2010) (point e), in view of the complex nature of the issues raised by this case. The state of execution of the A., B. and C. v. Ireland case was accordingly last examined by the Ministers' Deputies at their 1157th meeting (DH) (December 2012) and 1164th meeting (DH) (March 2013).

2. As regards the other questions raised by the Honourable Parliamentarian, the Committee of Ministers underlines that on this issue, as on any other, the Committee and the European Court of Human Rights exercise their functions strictly within the framework of their respective mandates as provided by the European Convention on Human Rights.

1. Adopted at the 1165th meeting of the Ministers' Deputies (13 March 2013).

