Framing of a State's family policy

Reply to Written question¹: Written question No. 657 (Doc. 13420)
Committee of Ministers

1. The Committee of Ministers agrees that it is for each member State to frame its own family policy, as long as its obligations in international law, particularly with regard to fundamental rights and freedoms, are respected.

1. Adopted at the 1198th meeting of the Ministers' Deputies (29-30 April 2014).
