Attacks against journalists and media freedom in Europe

Amendment¹ No. 21

In the draft resolution, at the end of paragraph 3.4, add the following words:

"Efforts to change the ownership of the country's most popular pro-European TV station have caused continual concern among many international interlocutors and in civil society."

Explanatory note

Concerns on efforts to change ownership of Georgia's most popular pro-European TV channel have been continuously voiced by interlocutors such as the European Union, the United States Department of State and a large number of credible civil society organisations.
