Constitutional Court of the Republic of Moldova

Reply to Written question[1]: Written question No. 717 (Doc. 14195)

In reply to the Honourable Parliamentarian's question, the Committee of Ministers notes that in a democracy the main provisions on the powers and responsibilities of the Constitutional Court should be set out in the Constitution, while more detailed provisions could be in ordinary legislation. To revise the powers and responsibilities of the Constitutional Court, it would therefore be necessary to amend the Constitution or the legislation in accordance with the normal procedure.

1. Adopted at the 1281st meeting of the Ministers' Deputies (15 March 2017).
