

Recommendation 484 (1967)¹

International protection of type faces

Parliamentary Assembly

The Assembly,

1. Noting that the designing of type faces is a predominantly European craft, requiring great skill and carrying on an ancient tradition ;
2. Realising that new type faces designed in one country are often quickly copied in other countries, and that this danger has been considerably increased by the improvement and simplification of reproduction processes ;
3. Considering that type face designs have, in addition to their artistic value, an important economic value, since production of them often entails considerable investment, if only on account of the time necessary for the setting up of new type faces before they can be sold to the typographical industry ;
4. Considering that, notwithstanding the appreciable benefits which legal protection of type faces would bring to those concerned, such protection is still an unsolved problem in certain member countries, and in particular at international level ;
5. Considering that, accordingly, producers of new type faces have suffered, and often do suffer, considerable financial loss as a result of such plagiarism ;
6. Considering that type faces should be protected in the same way as any other intellectual and industrial property ;
7. Expressing the hope that the European States will establish a system of international protection for type faces ;
8. Acknowledging the importance of the work done by the Committee of Experts on the International Protection of Type Faces within the framework of the United International Bureaux for the Protection of Intellectual Property (BIRPI), which has resulted in the publication of a preliminary draft International Convention,
9. Recommends the Committee of Ministers to instruct the European Committee on Legal Co-operation (CCJ) to draw up, within the framework of fundamental international agreements and on the basis of the draft Convention appended hereto, a European Convention providing international protection of type faces.

Draft Convention for the International Protection of Type Faces

The member States of the Council of Europe, Signatories to the present Convention,

Considering that the aim of the Council of Europe is to achieve a greater unity between its Members for the purpose, among others, of facilitating their economic and social progress by agreements and common action in economic, social, cultural, scientific, legal and administrative matters ;

Moved by the desire to assure an adequate protection of type faces on an international basis ;

1. Assembly Debate on 26th January 1967 (23rd Sitting) (see Doc. 2169, report of the Legal Committee). Text adopted by the Assembly on 26th January 1967 (23rd Sitting).

Conscious of the special requirements to which such protection has to conform ;

Considering, moreover, that certain systems of protection make such protection subject to a deposit ;

Referring to Article 15 of the Paris Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property, of 20th March 1883, revised at Brussels on 14th December 1900, at Washington on 2nd June 1911, at The Hague on 6th November 1925, at London on 2nd June 1934, and at Lisbon on 31st October 1958 ;

Referring to Article 20 of the Berne Convention for the Protection of Literary and Artistic Works, of 9th September 1886, supplemented at Paris on 4th May 1896, revised at Berlin on 13th November 1908, supplemented at Berne on 20th March 1914, revised at Rome on 2nd June 1928, and at Brussels on 20th June 1948,

Have agreed as follows :

Article 1

The Contracting States shall undertake to ensure the protection of type faces in conformity with the provisions of the present Agreement, either by means of a special national deposit, or by the extension of the deposit already provided for designs and models by their national legislation, or by copyright provisions.

Article 2

For the purposes of the present Conventions :

the term "International Deposit" shall be understood to mean the deposit of type faces with the Secretariat of the Council of Europe ;

the term "Regulations" to mean the Rules governing the execution of the said Convention ;

the terms "Secretary General" and "Secretariat" respectively to mean the Secretary General and the Secretariat of the Council of Europe.

Article 3

For the purposes of the present Convention, the term "Type Faces" shall mean the designs of :

- b. additional figurative signs ;
- c. ornaments (borders, fleurons, vignettes), intended to be inserted or used in typographical, typewritten or any other analogous compositions.

Article 4

The protection shall be subject to the conditions that the type faces respond to at least one of the two following criteria :

- a. novelty,
- b. originality.

Article 5

The novelty of type faces shall be judged in relation to their general aspect and style, taking into account technical and aesthetic criteria recognised by qualified professional circles, in particular hereunder enumerated :

- a. the relative proportion of the height and the width of the letters ;
- b. the relative proportions between the thick and thin strokes ;
- c. the particular shapes of the serifs and the terminals ;
- d. the spacing between the letters ;

- e. the alignment of type.

Article 6

1. The protection entitles the owner of the right to prohibit any reproduction, whether identical or slightly modified, for any use whatsoever, of the type faces covered by the said protection, without his consent, whether the type faces had been known by the author of the reproduction or not, by any means, form or medium whatsoever.
2. The protection shall also enable the owner to prohibit all reproduction obtained by the distortion of the said type faces by any purely technical means, whatever the results of such distortion.
3. The provisions of the present Article shall not prevent a person having legitimately acquired the rights of reproduction from using these rights in conformity with current technical methods.
4. The Contracting States basing the protection on the criterion of originality may have the faculty to provide that the right defined in paragraph 1 of the present Article shall apply only in the case where the type faces were known to the author of the reproduction.
5. The provisions of paragraphs 1, 2, 3 shall not apply to reproduction by a third party for his private use, not to reproduction obtained exclusively for purposes of instruction, scientific research or quotation.

Article 7

The term of protection granted shall not be less than twenty-five years.

Article 8

1. The nationals of the Contracting States or persons who are not nationals of one of the said States, but who are domiciled or who possess a real and effective industrial or commercial establishment in the territory of any one of the said States, shall be entitled to make an international deposit of type faces with the Secretariat in conformity with the provisions of the present Convention.
2. This international deposit shall enjoy protection identical with that provided by the national deposits referred to in Article 1 in all States Members of the present Convention.
3. International deposits can be made with the Secretariat either :
 - a. directly, or
 - b. through the intermediary of the national Administration of a Contracting State provided that the laws of the said State so permit.
4. The national legislation of each Contracting State may require that all international deposits, in respect of which the said State is held to be the country of origin, be dealt with through the channel of its national Administration. Non-observance of such regulations shall not, however, prejudice the effects of international deposit in the other Contracting States
5. Within the meaning of the present Article, the term "country of origin" shall denote the Contracting State wherein the depositor possesses a real and effective industrial or commercial establishment, or in the event of the possession by the said depositor of similar establishments in more than one of the Contracting States, the Contracting State he shall have designated in his application ; if the said depositor has no domicile in any of the Contracting States, then the Contracting State of which he is a national.

3. Each Contracting State may declare at the time of the signature of the Convention or of the deposit of its instrument of ratification or of accession, that a sealed deposit shall be recognised as having legal effect in respect of the said State only as from the date of the opening thereof.

Article 10

1. The deposit shall be accompanied by an application for international registration in triplicate, together with the documents and declarations, in English or French, as required by the Regulations.

2. An international deposit shall be considered valid from the date on which the Secretariat receives the application made in proper form together with the fee and all other documentation prescribed by the Regulations ; if these are not received simultaneously, the said deposit shall be valid only from the date on which the last formality has been fulfilled.

3. Upon receipt of an application for a deposit, whether open or sealed, the Secretariat shall immediately record the said application on a special register and shall publish it in the "international bulletin of type faces", copies of which shall be sent free of charge to the national Administrations of each of the Contracting States.

Article 11

1. Each international deposit of type faces shall be published in the "international bulletin of type faces" as soon as possible, and shall include in particular the following items :

- b. the date of the international deposit ;
- c. whatever information shall have been prescribed by the Regulations.

2. Sealed deposits shall be published only after the date of the opening thereof.

Article 16

2. The information shall be accompanied by a certified copy or, if required, by a reproduction of the type face certified as being in conformity with the open deposit.

Article 17

1. The provisions of the present Convention shall not impede the granting of rights wider in scope, that might eventually be enacted by the national legislation of a Contracting State and shall not in any way affect the protection extended to artistic works and works of applied art by the international Conventions and Treaties on Copyright.
2. The Contracting States which have already granted special protection to type faces shall have the option of stipulating that the benefit of protection already covering designs or models shall not extend, within their territory, to type faces.
