Role of the Council of Europe in the economic field

Motion for a resolution

tabled by Mr Félix GAILLARD, Mr Edouard BONNEFOUS

The Consultative Assembly of the Council of Europe having appointed its Committees and proceeded to general debates on its rôle regarding the problems of Europe, considers that its Committee for Economic Affairs should proceed:

- a. to the hearing of specialised Ministers of the different countries, members of the Council, concerning what measures they propose taking to ensure an effective economic co-operation between their countries and the other European nations, with the ultimate aim of rapidly achieving a complete economic union of Europe and of the overseas territories attached to it.
- b. to the hearing of specialists working on the same subjects in European international organisations with special reference to O. E. E. C., on the use of funds allocated to Europe by the Marshall Plan, in order to ensure a co-ordinated and complementary development of European nations and their overseas territories.
