Chapter 2 presents a list of activities and decisions which do not require ratification. Chapter 3 lists the decisions taken on 6 September that require ratification at the opening of the fourth part-session of the Assembly.

An addendum to this report will be issued after the Bureau meeting of 24 September, which will include decisions to be ratified by the Assembly on 27 September. Another addendum will be issued after the Bureau meeting of 30 September. It will include the decisions to be ratified by the Assembly on the same day, notably the references and transmissions which will have been approved by the Bureau.

2.2. Fourth part-session of 2021 (Strasbourg, 27-30 September)

On 24 June, the Bureau drew up the preliminary draft agenda and decided to hold this part-session in a hybrid format.

On 6 September, the Bureau drew up the draft agenda. It also accepted the proposal by the Committee on Equality and Non-Discrimination to invite, to a forthcoming part-session, Ms Helena Dalli, European Commissioner for Equality, to address the Assembly in the context of the plenary debate on Combating rising hate against LGBTI people in Europe.

2.2.1. Requests for debates under urgent procedure

On 6 September, the Bureau took note of the following requests to hold debates on:

2.2.2. Request for a current affairs debate

On 6 September, the Bureau took note of the request to hold a debate on The Western Balkans between democratic challenges and European aspirations: what role for the Council of Europe?, tabled by the five political groups.

2.3. Communications

On 24 June, the Bureau took note of the communication by the President in which he particularly welcomed the convening of a high-level panel and a debate, on Wednesday 23 June, on The Istanbul Convention, 10 years on (Appendix 1).

On 6 September, the Bureau took note of the communication by the President, and by the Secretary General and the Deputy Secretary General of the Council of Europe.

2.4. Election observation

2.4.1. Armenia: early parliamentary elections (20 June 2021)

On 24 June, the Bureau took note of a statement by the observation mission, and on 6 September, it approved the report of the ad hoc committee.

2.4.2. Republic of Moldova: early parliamentary elections (11 July 2021)

On 6 September, the Bureau approved the report of the ad hoc committee.

It also confirmed the appointment of Mr Alberto Ribolla (Italy EC/DA) as Chairperson and approved the list of members to observe these elections (Appendix 2).

2.4.5. Russian Federation: parliamentary elections (19 September 2021)

On 24 June, the Bureau approved the list of members of the ad hoc committee and appointed Mr Pierre-Alain Fridez (Switzerland, SOC) as the Chairperson of the ad hoc committee. On 6 September, it considered the assessment of the pre-electoral mission that took place remotely on 2-3 September 2021, and decided, in accordance with Assembly rules, to hold a second in situ meeting of the ad hoc committee in the format of an Election Assessment Mission, composed of one member from each political group, as follows: Mr Pierre-Alain Fridez (Switzerland, SOC) as its Chairperson; Mr Joseph O'Reilly (Ireland, EPP/CD); Mr Alberto Ribolla (Italy, EC/DA); Mr Jacques Maire (France, ALDE); Mr George Katrougalos (Greece, UEL).

In the absence of international election observation partners from ODIHR/OSCE and OSCE Parliamentary Assembly, the Bureau considered that the Assembly would not be in a position to conduct a fully-fledged election observation mission. At the same time, it considered that a political presence by the Assembly in the format of an Election Assessment Mission, on and around election day, would bring an added value to the ongoing process of political dialogue between the Russian Federation and the Assembly, including within the framework of the Assembly's monitoring procedure.

2.4.6. Schedule of the elections

On 6 September, the Bureau took note of the updated schedule of the elections.

2.5. References and transmissions to committees

Appendix 1 – High-level panel and debate, Wednesday 23 June – The Council of Europe Convention on preventing and combating violence against women and domestic violence (Istanbul Convention): 10 years on

On Wednesday 23 June, from 11am to 1:30pm, the Assembly held, at the initiative of its President Rik Daems, a high-level panel and interactive debate on "The Council of Europe Convention on preventing and combating violence against women and domestic violence (Istanbul Convention): 10 years on". This was the Assembly's contribution to marking the 10 years of entry into force of that Convention, which has been prompted by the Assembly.

The President of the Assembly moderated the panel and debate. High-level speakers were: Ms Nadia Murad, Yezedi human rights activist, 2018 Nobel Peace Prize laureate, recipient of the 2016 Václav Havel Human Rights Prize and the Sakharov Prize for Freedom of Thought; Mr Alexander De Croo, Prime Minister of Belgium, author of a book entitled The Age of Women: Why Feminism Also Liberates Men; Ms Anca Dana Dragu, President of the Senate of Romania; Ms Elisabeth Moreno, Minister Delegate to the Prime Minister of France for Gender Equality, Diversity and Equal Opportunities; Ms Dubravka Šimonovic, United Nations Special Rapporteur on violence against women, and Ms Marija Pejčinović-Burić, Secretary General of the Council of Europe.

Nadia Murad stated that despite setbacks, exacerbated during conflicts and crises such as the Covid-19 pandemic, the convention had the potential "to make meaningful change for survivors like the Yazidis and women around the world by shifting the international norms around gender-based violence". In order to prevent sexual violence in times of war, a strong foundation of gender equality must be created in times of peace.

For Belgian Prime Minister Alexander de Croo, the Istanbul Convention was a means for women and girls to know their rights and how to enforce them. He stressed that "Belgium is determined to join the Secretary General of the Council of Europe and so many others, including civil society, in order to promote the convention loud and clear, and to lead by example by implementing it in the best possible way."

Ms Anca Dana Dragu, first woman President of the Senate of Romania, explained the process of revision of legislation and public policies after ratification of the Istanbul Convention, including new partnerships with civil society. "If I were asked to sum up in two words, I would say that the Istanbul Convention saves lives", she said. Parliamentarians must initiate a comprehensive cross-sector national response to gender-based violence.

Minister Delegate Ms Elisabeth Moreno underlined that since the French Presidency of the Committee of Ministers in 2019, France had prioritised the universalisation of the Istanbul Convention as one of the main goals of its feminist diplomacy, so that any state that wished to do so could raise its protection standards based on the text. Gender stereotypes related to the roles that men should play in society were at the source of inequalities and violence against women.

UN Special Rapporteur on violence against women Ms Dubravka Šimonovic worked with the Istanbul Convention to address measures to combat and prevent violence against women. The provisions addressing the criminalisation and prosecution of rape, for instance, were reflected in her ongoing report on the subject. The latter contained a framework model legislation for rape which, once published, could be used as a tool for implementation of the convention.

Secretary-General Ms Marija Pejčinović-Burić stressed that no single government could recreate the protection provided by this multilateral treaty, with its unique, independent international monitoring mechanism which enabled difficult, but positive, change to come about. The best way to counter preconceptions and misconceptions about the Istanbul Convention was to widen the circle of its Sates parties.

During the ensuing debate, representatives of political groups and Assembly members had the opportunity to take the floor, and panellists were invited by the President to respond.

Ms Zita Gurmai (Hungary, SOC), General Rapporteur on violence against women and coordinator of the Parliamentary Network Women Free from Violence underlined in her remarks that implication of parliaments, reflected in the Istanbul Convention, was essential in fighting violence against women. She commended President Daems for the initiative of this debate and for his commitment to promoting the ratification of the Istanbul Convention. This event had been a great opportunity to take stock of the ten years since the opening for signature of the Istanbul Convention and to commit to further promoting and supporting it.

In his concluding remarks, the President said that this was a call for action to both men and women – each and every member in the debate – to make the Convention a gold standard also in every day life of every woman and girl.

As part of the follow-up to this high-level panel and debate, the Committee on Equality and Non-Discrimination will prepare a report on the implementation of the Istanbul Convention to form the basis of a debate in 2022.
